BASEMENT SCHOOLS

Health Officer Gives Them a Knockout Blow.

Dr. Woodward Has Made a Detailed Report in Response ton Request From the School Board.

The proposition made by the board of school trustees to use the basement rooms of certain school buildings in the Northeast section of the city for the accommodation of the pupils of the fourth grades, is likely to be defeated.

When it was first suggested that this alternative, the matter came in the regular way to the attention of Health Officer Woodward, who caused the rooms to b inspected, and in his report, a copy of which was sent to the trustees, he condemined the rooms as not fit for occupancy."

He alleged no reasons therefor, and the board wrote again to the Commissioners to state his objections more specifically. of those who are advised of the true state of facts that the trustees will be convinced by the doctor's argument.

It is stated that if the project is abandoned the fourth grade pupils in these schools will be required to hold half-day sersions until the requisite accommodations can be provided.

President Tucker, of the Northeast Wash Ington Citizen's Association, who was to-day, rays the people of that section would rather suffer this deprivation than to have their children put into the

OLD FRIENDS GREETED HIM

He Grows Facetious Over a Sanday Drunk-Several Disorderlies and Vagrants Feel the Effects of His Re cent Vacation in the Sentences They Received From Him.

Judge Mills sat in judgment in the lower police court this morning. In the first five cases he imposed the law to the fullest extent, and the dockfull of arrests were getting upeasy.

He had almost finished hearing the evidence in the case of Andrew Hillman, charged with crucity to his horse, when Judge Kimball entered the courtroom. Hillman was dismissed and then to the relief of the prisoners whose cases had not yet been tried, Judge Mills gave way to the great police court judge of far more than local reputation.

The potice court offenders, are, as a ule, not much pleased to see Judge Kimball, but in this instance a mighty sigh of relief went up from the prisoners here as Judge Kimball's famous drooping moustache appeared in the doorway. The udge was healthy, hearty, and well, and dispensed justice with a bountiful hand. James Rich, whose appearance gave rise to the conclusion that he had been wrongly named, was the first prisoner before Judge Mills, and was charged with disorderly conduct. A fine of $5 or fifteen days was SMILED AT HER SENTENCE. William C. Brown shoved his shaggy read up over the rail and, with a smile said he was guilty of being drunk and disorderly. He was an old friend, and got $5 or fifteen days.

Bettle Wilson and Hattle Pinney cam up together. Bettie pleaded guilty and went down to rusticate for fifteen days while Hattie said she was innocent, and the court took her personal bonds. Emma Ford was charged with being an habitual drunkard, and she devied the "I wasn't drunk on Sunday, no such thing, jedge; you can't get no whisky or

"You can't!" said the judge in surprise Well, all I have to say is that the city has reformed since I have been away."

Emma was given until to-morrow to get witnesses to prove that she is not an habitual drunkard. Sarah Overton, a respectable, refinedooking colored girl, had to answer the charge of disorderly conduct. She said that she had never been in the police court before and the judge believed uer. Policenan Auldridge had arrested a colored man and it seems that Sarah 1:14 made some remark about the way in which the man was being handled. The ponceman told her to go on about her business which he said she would when she got good and ready. Her personal bonds were taken.

BABY IN THE DOCK. Policeman John Mohl was responsible for the presence of a nine-year-old in the court. The prisoner was Richard Mack and he was so small that his little, kinky head didn't appear over the rail. He stood in the box sucking a little black thumb and all be could say was "nothin"." He was charged with jumping on the Fourand-a-ahalf street electric cars. The fine

Susie Luck, a fifteen-year-old colored girl, attempted to carve up her rival last night on the corner of Four-and-a-haif and G streets southwest. She made a break at the rival's body, but luckily only cut into her sleeve. She got fifteen days for profamily and six months for assault.

Peter Burke and John Ganley, two white men, went into a photographic tent kept by S. T. Salter. Their pictures were taken, but they did not like their looks. The assaulted Michael Quirk, who is employed by Salter, and commenced to break up abothings that took such horrid pictures. They were gathered in by the policemen the charge of destroying personal property was dismissed. Ganley was not beld.

Hoover Divarce Suit Blocked By Somebody's Blunder.

WERE FILED WITH A CLERK

They Were to Be Copied and Have Completely Disappeared-Judge Cox Accordingly Declined to Proceed and the Lawyers Had to Adjourn and Renew the Search.

An attempt to try a case with one-half of the papers in the suit missing was the sing rpectacle which occurred in Judge Cox's court this morning It was the divorce suit of Mary L. Hoover against ber hurband Thomas G. Hoover, the O street market man. Mr. Hoover and his lawyer, Maj. Carrington came down to the court house early. Mrs. Hoover and her daughter and son came a little later, accompanied by her counsel, W. Preston Williamson. Maj. Carrington inquired at the clerk's office for the papers in the care. Those he wanted consisted of the husband's answer to a petition filed by the wife rome days ago and a rew petition by Mr. Hoover.

Judge Cole recently granted a restraining order against the husband, commanding him not to enter or go near the house in which his wife lives, No. 1723 Fifth street northwest, until the suit for divorce Mr. Hoover was going to petition that his wife be restrained from keeping him out HUNTED HIGH AND LOW. Mai. Carrington hunted high and low for the missing papers, and had the clerks in the office do the same. The lawyer directed them to make copies of the papers on Saturday, he said, and no one knew where they were to-day. The papers could not be found, however, and all went nto court.

"it is exceedingly annoying, your honor," began Major Carrington, "but we have lost the papers in this case."

The court showed much astonishment as "I told the clerk Saturday to make opies of the papers," the major went on, "and new I don't find originals or opies. My client wants to go back in his own house and can't,"

"But it is not the husband's peoperty," interposed Mr. Williamson.. The property in which Mrs. Hoover is living is on record in her own name."

LOTS OF EVIDENCE. Your honor, Mrs. Hoover first got a rarrant to have her husband kept away, but then he gave bail and turned right up Then be had to get a restraining order. We have plenty of affidavits of his bad conduct toward her."

"Who had charge of the papers?" asked "The clerk, your bonor," answered Maj.

"Well, I can do nothing for you. You must have the papers," said the court.

Maj. Carrington and his brother, Campbeil Carrington, who had mean while en-tered the room, said they would be willng to use the copies Mr. Williamson had een served with.
Mr. Williamson was not sure that he had pies of all the papers.

"Let it go over until to-morrow, then," said Judge Cox.

SILVER ON THE STAGE. A Play Produced in Chicago in the Interest of Free Colmage-Chicago, Sept. 3 .- "The Silver Lining." play based upon W. H. Harvey's "Coin's Financial School," was produced for the first time last night at the Chicago Opera House. It was written by Fitzgerald Murphy, a Boston newspaper man. After the second act the author came before the curtain in response to calls, and turning to Mr. Harvey, who occupied a scat in a box, presented the spirit of "Coin's School." The audience was on uptoe at the unusual incident, and when Mr. Harvey, rising in
